Day 1: 24 November 2026 – Hosted by The University of Melbourne

Doctoral Colloquium, Early Career Researchers Day, and Mid Career Researchers Day.
Organised by ANZIBA.

Doctoral Colloquium
The Doctoral Colloquium (DC) will be centred around discussions among participants and academic mentors on the submitted proposals. All DC participants will receive all proposals and are expected to read them and participate actively in the discussions.
Submissions should be made via email to anzibaaiboevent@gmail.com
Lead: Prof Susan Freeman - Adelaide University, Australia

Early Career Researchers Day
The Early Career Researchers (ECRs) Day is aimed at ECRs (up to eight years after earning a PhD and holding an academic position that includes research) who want to learn more about developing a successful and well-balanced academic career. Preliminary themes include balancing research, teaching and service/citizenship, engaging in collaborations, establishing and pursuing a rewarding research programme, and seeking well-being and avoiding ill-being in academia. The Day will provide an opportunity to network with peers and learn from experienced academics.
Submissions should be made via email to anzibaaiboevent@gmail.com
Lead: Dr Pavlina Jasovska - University of New South Wales, Australia

Mid-Career Researchers Day
Mid-Career Researchers (MCRs) are academics who typically have at least eight years of academic experience, have a research component in their employment agreement, see themselves as having more than five years of a rewarding academic career in front of them, and identify themselves as MCRs. This day-long event is for MCRs interested in gaining insights into strategising about and crafting a career they would define as satisfying and rewarding. Sessions will focus on unpacking some of the distinct demands and challenges MCRs meet as pressure and stress increase. Discussions will also be devoted to the power of peer mentoring and meaningfully aligning the various parts of academic portfolios. The day will offer good opportunities for MCRs to network and learn from each other.
Submissions should be made via email to anzibaaiboevent@gmail.com
Lead: Prof Snejina Michailova - University of Auckland, New Zealand

Education Scholars Day.
Organised by the University of Melbourne

Designed specifically for education-focused academics, this one-day workshop offers a practical and collegial space to develop your career in the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL). Participants will explore strategies for building a sustainable SoTL research agenda, navigating promotion pathways for teaching-focused academic roles, and translating innovative pedagogical practice into peer-reviewed outputs. Whether you are early in your SoTL journey or looking to consolidate and elevate an established profile, this workshop will connect you with like-minded colleagues and equip you with the tools to thrive as a business education scholar.
Submissions should be made via email to anzibaaiboevent@gmail.com
Lead: Associate Professor Sandra Alday - The University of Sydney, Australi

Day 2: 25 November 2026 – Hosted by The University of Melbourne

Day 2 sees the return of the three 'traditional' research methods workshops showcasing best practices in quantitative and qualitative approaches, as well as writing methods papers. The innovation this year is three education workshops exploring distinctive domains where IB educators are making innovations.

Research Methods (RM) Workshops.
Organised by AIB-Oceania.

Leads: Professor Tine Köhler and Assoc. Prof. André Sammartino - The University of Melbourne, Australia

RM Workshop 1 –
Measurement Invariance in Cross-Group, Longitudinal, Congruence, and Multilevel Organisational Studies.

RM Workshop 2 –
Qualitative analysis beyond coding: Interpreting Patterns, Constructing Meaning, and Theorising.

RM Workshop 3 –
Writing methods papers: Conceptualisation, empirical evidence, and methodological contribution.

Education Methods (EM) Workshops.
Organised by the University of Melbourne

EM Workshop 1 –
Experiential IB Learning

EM Workshop 2 –
Authentic Assessment in IB

EM Workshop 3 –
Contemporary Global Issues in the IB Classroom

Day 3: 26 November 2026 – Hosted by RMIT University

The conference commences with a keynote address by Professor Shige Makino, followed by parallel paper sessions and panels.

Keynote Speaker: Professor Shige Makino – Kyoto University, Japan

Shige Makino is Professor at the Faculty of Economics/Graduate School of Economics, Kyoto University, Japan, and Emeritus Professor at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. He received LLB and MBA degrees from Keio University and a PhD from Ivey Business School, Western University.

Professor Makino is the Incoming President Elect (2026-2027) and Fellow of the Academy of International Business.

Shige's research focuses on strategies and performance of multinational corporations. He is especially interested in exploring non-economic motivations for economic activities and their performance consequences in international business. His research has appeared in such journals as Academy of Management Journal, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Management Studies, Organization Science, and Strategic Management Journal, among others.
